

Accessible. Aware. Independent.

ACCESSIBLE. WeCo's primary goal is to ensure that websites, software, and mobile environments are accessible to everyone. We do this with our WCAG 2.1 AA Manual Accessibility Audits, training, and Usability Testing Services. You'll be working with experts, because everyone working on accessibility at WeCo lives with one or more disabilities.

AWARE. WeCo fosters public awareness about the digital accessibility needs of people living with disabilities. We also engage the capabilities of professionals who live with disabilities in our service design and delivery.

INDEPENDENT. WeCo provides independent accessibility services, including manual audits, training, and usability testing. We do this through a team of digital professionals who live with the disabilities they are testing for. Software and disability simulations don't give a complete accessibility picture; digital professionals who also live with disabilities do.

CAN DISABILITY BE AN EXPERTISE?

AT WECO, WE KNOW IT IS BECAUSE WE LIVE WITH IT EVERY DAY.

WeCo was founded by a government digital accessibility specialist and a group of stakeholders, all of whom live with disabilities. They knew that people living with disabilities are the best experts on their own disability needs. In a world fixated on “accessibility software,” WeCo connects organizations, developers, and designers with digital experts who live with the disabilities they are seeking to accommodate.

WeCo Accessibility Specialists and Testers:

- Live with one or more disabilities.
- Are members of the International Association of Accessibility Professionals.
- Receive rigorous, on-going training through WeCo, on our proprietary manual accessibility audit and usability testing processes.
- Understand and can help you meet Section 508 and WCAG 2.1 AA standards.

Disability is an expertise. It’s one you can rely upon while bringing consulting and employment opportunities to talented individuals who are often overlooked by traditional workplaces. While accessibility software gives you a “best guess” estimate of accessibility, WeCo’s Accessibility Team brings you authentic feedback from real users who live with disabilities every day.

WeCo is a mission-based digital accessibility company, founded and powered by digital professionals who live with disabilities.
